This is due to the common practice in the airline industry of overbooking. If you are denied boarding on an overbooked scheduled international flight for which you have both a valid and a confirmed reservation, and you have presented yourself at check-in by the check-in deadline, we shall at our option either:

(a) carry you at the earliest opportunity on another of our scheduled services on which space is available without additional charge and, where necessary, extend the validity of your booking; or (b) should you choose to travel at another time, retain the value of your fare in a credit account for your future travel provided that you must re-book within three (3) months thereafter.
